

Development team web/mobile/software (on a distance)

The challenge:

IT professionals needed ASAP for web/mobile/software development

- Most top-of-the-line Dutch development professionals are not available and the competition is fierce for those that are available
- Budget requires a cost-effective solution
- Highly competent professionals are required to ensure quality in the product, and in the software development and deployment process
- It is not interesting to take on a permanent employee, or to spend money on recruitment
- A flexible option is preferred

The solution:

IT professionals from Eastern Europe for a distance

- Access to top-of-the-line English speaking IT professionals through Rocketworks
- Team of one or more professionals created for a custom fit to your project/needs
- We will guide your local team on how to gain maximum results with a distance team
- It is a possibility to have an Eastern European representative locally in the client's office to coordinate the project
- Quality is a "sacred cow" for Rocketworks. We help our clients solve their challenges to completion. Not only do we find suitable professionals - we also work with the client to gain the desired results from the development team on a distance
- Different degrees of flexibility possible